

Fee Assistance Program

The AAMC believes that the cost of applying to medical school should not be a financial barrier to people interested in becoming physicians. To help defray some of the costs, the AAMC provides fee assistance to eligible MCAT® examinees and AMCAS® applicants.

Fee Assistance Program Benefits

- Reduction in the MCAT registration and rescheduling fees
- AMCAS application fee waiver (visit aamc.org/fap for current benefit)
- Complimentary official MCAT practice products
- Complimentary access to the Medical School Admission Requirements (MSAR®) website
- Waiver for AAMC PREview™ professional readiness exam registration fees
- Consideration for financial assistance to obtain an updated evaluation to support an application for accommodations on the MCAT exam.

In addition, most AMCAS-participating medical schools waive their secondary application fees for applicants who have been granted fee assistance by the AAMC.

You will be granted fee assistance if each household reported on your application has a total family income that is 400% or less than the national poverty level for that family size.

MCAT Accommodation Services Financial Benefit

MCAT Accommodation Services offers a financial benefit for eligible recipients of the AAMC's Fee Assistance Program whose most recent evaluation is not considered current, according to our guidelines, for supporting their application for accommodations on the MCAT exam.
